Sing c'est La Vie

And soon you will see

Your cares will be free

Just sing c'est La Vie

I once knew a man
Who owned a butcher shop
He also had apartments

To rent up on top
But he didn't include on the sign
That he painted "no pets"

And the tenant who rented
Had six hungry dogs he regrets

But he said!

When things go wrong

Just sing this song

The birds in the trees Will sing harmony

Sing c'est La Vie

And soon you will see

Your cares will be free

Just sing c'est La Vie

If you think the old women
Who lived in the shoe had it bad
The story of Mrs. Pierre

is ten times as sad
With twenty-two children
A duck, and two goats in the bin

She was gaily informed by a doctor

That she is having twins

But she said:

When things go wrong

Just sing this song

The birds in the trees

Will sing harmony

Sing c'est La Vie

And soon you will see

Your cares will be free

Just sing c'est La Vie

And have I mentioned to you
the worst one of all
The night a mayor and his wife

Had their annual ball
The speeches
He made after dinner
Became quite renowned

But this time he sneezed when he spoke
And his pants they fell down

But he said:

When things go wrong

Just sing this song

The birds in the trees

Will sing harmony

Sing c'est La Vie

And soon you will see

Your cares will be free

C'est La Vie!!!
